Recommended Midday Frequencies

Recommended Transit Network: Northeast Seattle

Summary of Changes

- Improved frequency on routes 48, 49, 62, 65, 67, 70, 73, 75, and 372X
- Frequent connections to Link light rail at the University of Washington Station, replacing complicated/unreliable all-day bus service between northeast Seattle and downtown Seattle
- Service every 8 minutes or better between the heart of the University District and the University of Washington Station on five all-day routes (44, 45, 48, 67, and 271)
- Added trips on four peak-only routes: 64X, 74X, 76, and 316
- New weekend service on routes 67, 70, and 372X
- New east-west connections between Sand Point, View Ridge, Ravenna, Roosevelt, Wallingford, and Fremont (new Route 62)
- New peak-period service connecting NE Seattle neighborhoods with South Lake Union and First Hill (revised routes 64X and new Route 63)
- Splitting Route 48 into two routes to improve reliability (Route 48 and new route 45)
- All-day service on 15th Avenue NE in Pinehurst and Maple Leaf (revised Route 73)

In the table below, the color red indicates a change.
