Please describe what you use the state ferry for and how often you use it (commuting, to reach services, once a week, occasionally, etc).

For two years, from 2017-2019, I used the state ferry every day to commute, on public transportation, to UW for grad school. I currently live and work on Vashon Island but use the ferry often (once/week) to visit family and friends in Seattle and/or Tacoma to access medical and other retail services.

Please explain why you feel you are the most qualified candidate for this appointment.

I am the most qualified candidate for this appointment for the following reasons:

- As an 8+ year resident of Vashon Island, I have personal knowledge of how the ferry system presents both benefits and burdens to the communities it serves.
- I currently serve in a public facing role on the island as Executive Director of the Vashon Food Bank. I have plenty of connections and the food bank has a great reputation as connected island institution.
- My time in the Evans MPA program familiarized me with the complexities of public service delivery in an environment with multiple, and often conflicting, variables at play. I have experience with qualitative and quantitative data analysis and a variety of stakeholder engagement strategies.
- During my time at Evans I served in two different capacities as a paid research assistant for WSF projects. I worked with faculty from the Evans School to analyze ticketing and loading procedures at the Fauntleroy Ferry Terminal and continued on to work with UW's TRAC on a deeper analysis of what it would take to integrate Good to Go more effectively into WSF's fare collection system. In phase one of the project, I interviewed and engaged directly with members of all three of the Triangle Route FACs and the since disbanded (?) Triangle Task Force.

How did you learn of this opportunity?

John Vezina, WSF’s Director of Government Relations, contacted me over email to let me know of the open position
