Naming the King County Administration Building offers a unique opportunity. As tempting as it would be to name the building after a prominent person or company, the choice seems clear. The name The King County Citizens' Center is an inclusive, simple and self-explanatory name. It would represent past, current and future generations and allows for flexibility in naming certain rooms or wings for individuals, groups or symbolic logos. The government building would be "For the people, By the people, Of the people."
