STAFF REPORT

Agenda Item Nos.:	10 & 11	Date:	3 June 2009
Proposed Ordinance No.:	2009-0245 2009-0349	Prepared by:	Rebecha Cusack Nick Wagner

INTRODUCTION

Proposed Ordinance 2009-0245 (Attachment 1, pp. 7-10 of these materials) would place on the November 2009 general election ballot a charter amendment (the “Open Space Amendment” or “OSA”) recommended by the 2007-2008 King County Charter Review Commission (“CRC”). If placed on the ballot and approved by the voters, the OSA would provide an additional tier of protection for about 150,000 acres of “high conservation value” properties either owned by the county or in which the county holds a conservation easement.

PAST BRIEFINGS

At the April 8 and May 13 meetings of this committee, Council staff provided high-level briefings on the OSA. At the committee’s April 15, 22, and 29 and May 13 and 20 meetings, Executive staff briefed councilmembers on the 94 individual properties that the Executive originally proposed for protection under the OSA, along with Upper Raging River Forest, in which the Council recently approved the purchase of a conservation easement. The briefings on the individual properties were intended to:

- Familiarize the committee with the physical characteristics and current use of each property and the extent to which it is currently protected against development;
- Allow councilmembers to ask questions of Executive staff about each property.

A complete list of all 95 properties in alphabetical order is included in Attachment 7 to this staff report (pp. 23-60), which includes maps showing the boundaries of each property.

ORIGINAL PROPOSED ORDINANCE 2009-0245

In its original form, Proposed Ordinance 2009-0245 would place on the November 2009 ballot the CRC-proposed charter amendment, which would create both a special protected status for high conservation value properties and an initial list of those properties. The list (Attachment 7, pp. 23-60 of these materials) would be added as a new Appendix A to the Charter.¹ Properties could be added to the list or removed from it only by charter amendment. A diagram of the proposed charter amendment is Attachment 2 (p. 11 of these materials).

In a minority report, three CRC members opposed what they characterized as the OSA's "use [of] the King County Charter as the vehicle for regulating the use of specific parcels of real estate." They called this "a dangerous step that undermines the proper role of the charter" and suggested that it "opens the door for charter amendments based on agendas or the politics of the day, rather than defining the structure of county government."

STRIKING AMENDMENT AND PROPOSED ORDINANCE 2009-0349

Councilmembers Ferguson and Dunn have distributed for comment a draft striking amendment to Proposed Ordinance 2009-0245 (see Attachment 3, pp. 13-14 of these materials).² If the striking amendment in its current form were approved, the proposed ordinance would place on the ballot a charter amendment creating the same protected status for the same set of properties (including Upper Raging River Forest, which the county purchased on May 19). The striking amendment would make two primary changes in the proposed charter amendment ordinance:

1. The initial inventory of protected properties would be created by Council ordinance adopted by at least seven affirmative votes, rather than being created by charter amendment.
2. The addition or removal of an inventoried property would require another ordinance enacted by a minimum of seven affirmative votes, instead of requiring another charter amendment.

A diagram of the striking amendment is Attachment 4 (p. 15 of these materials).

Proposed Ordinance 2009-0349 (Attachment 5, pp. 17-20 of these materials), co-sponsored by Councilmembers Ferguson and Dunn, would implement the charter amendment proposed in the Ferguson-Dunn striking amendment by adopting an initial list of 95 properties to be protected by the OSA, provided that the ordinance is adopted with the affirmative votes of at least seven councilmembers and provided that the charter amendment is approved by the voters.

PROTECTED STATUS AND EXCEPTIONS

Both the original proposed ordinance and the striking amendment would create essentially the same restrictions on use of the inventoried properties and the same exceptions to those restrictions.³

² The wording of the draft striking amendment remains subject to change.

³ The restrictions and exceptions in the original version of Proposed Ordinance 2009-0245 are identical to what the CRC recommended.

Restrictions on Use of Inventoried Properties

The charter amendment in the original proposed ordinance would provide in part: “No inventoried county property interest shall ever be conveyed, relinquished or converted to a different use than was authorized at the time of acquisition, as evidenced by deed, easement, covenant, contract or funding source requirements . . .” (emphasis added).

The charter amendment in the draft striking amendment would provide in part: “The county shall not convey or relinquish its interest in an inventoried property or authorize an inventoried property to be converted to a use that was not permissible when the county acquired its interest, as evidenced by deed, easement, covenant, contract or funding source requirements . . .” (emphasis added).

The above-quoted charter amendment language in the striking amendment is intended to clarify the corresponding language in the original proposed ordinance by referring to the inventory as an inventory of “properties” rather than as an inventory of “property interests.” No substantive change is intended.

Exceptions to the Restrictions

The charter amendment in the original proposed ordinance would provide the following exceptions:

. . . except that this section shall not prevent: the conveyance of an inventoried property interest to another government, the conveyance of an inventoried property interest under the lawful threat or exercise of eminent domain; the grant of an easement, license, franchise or use agreement for utilities or other activities compatible with use restrictions in place at the time of acquisition; or the use of an inventoried property interest for habitat restoration, flood control, low-impact public amenities or regionally significant public facilities developed for purposes related to the conservation values of the property, road or utility projects or emergency projects necessary to protect public health, welfare or safety.

The striker clarifies the exceptions, as shown by the redlining below:

. . . except that this section shall not prevent: the conveyance of the county’s interest in an inventoried property ~~interest~~ to another government; the conveyance of the county’s interest in an inventoried property ~~interest~~ under the lawful threat or exercise of eminent domain; the grant of an easement, license, franchise or use agreement for utilities or other activities compatible with use restrictions in place ~~at the time of acquisition~~ when the county acquired its interest; or the use of an inventoried property ~~interest~~ for habitat restoration, flood control, low-impact public amenities or regionally significant public facilities developed for purposes related to the conservation values of the property, road or utility projects or emergency projects necessary to protect public health, welfare or safety.

Here, too, no substantive change is intended.

COUNCIL OPTIONS

The options available to the Council include the four listed below. Listed with each option, in no particular order, are possible perspectives supporting the option. A table comparing the options is Attachment 6 to this staff report (p. 21 of these materials).

Option 1: CRC-proposed charter amendment (adding an inventory of protected properties as an appendix to the Charter)

Place on the November 2009 ballot the CRC-proposed charter amendment (Proposed Ordinance 2009-0245) (see Attachment 1, pp. 7-10 of these materials), which would create both a special protected status for high conservation value properties and an initial list of those properties. The list would be added as a new, 38-page Appendix A to the Charter (see Attachment 7, pp. 23-60 of these materials). Properties could be added to the list or removed from it only by charter amendment.

- The OSA would promote conservation by creating both a protected status for certain high conservation value properties and a substantial procedural obstacle to removing properties from, or adding them to, protected status.
- Conservation of natural resources is a basic value that is appropriate for inclusion in the county Charter and for a popular vote on whether particular properties should be protected.
- For modification of the inventory of protected properties, any measure short of a charter amendment would be insufficient to resist temporary changes in the political climate.
- A benefit of requiring action by charter amendment is that the support of a majority of both the Council and the voters is required, which has the effect of focusing attention on the importance of the issue to be decided, while preserving the principle of majority rule.
- In deciding whether to approve the list of properties to be protected, voters would rely in part, as they often do, on the views expressed by political leaders and advocacy groups with whom the voters agree or disagree; voters would not need to become familiar with the details of every property.
- The OSA includes exceptions that retain necessary flexibility for meeting compelling countervailing needs.

Option 2: Striking amendment (charter amendment with companion ordinance – Proposed Ordinance 2009-0349 – establishing initial inventory of properties)

- a. Place on the ballot a charter amendment that, as in Option 1, would create a special protected status for high conservation value properties, but that would require an ordinance adopted by a seven-member Council supermajority—not a charter amendment—to place a property in protected status or to remove it from that status (see Attachment 3, pp. 13-14 of these materials); and

b. Concurrently adopt, by a Council supermajority of seven members, an ordinance creating an initial list of protected properties, contingent on voter approval of the charter amendment (Proposed Ordinance 2009-0349) (see Attachment 5, pp. 17-20 of these materials). The list of protected properties would not become part of the charter.

- This option would promote conservation by creating both a protected status for certain high conservation value properties and a substantial procedural obstacle to removing properties from, or adding them to, protected status, while keeping the scope of the Charter limited to defining the structure and basic principles of county government.
- For modification of the inventory of protected properties, the requirement of a seven-member Council supermajority would ensure that properties are not added to or removed from the inventory unless there is a consensus to do so.
- Voters having views about whether particular properties should be protected could communicate those views to councilmembers, rather than being limited to a single vote for or against the entire group of properties.
- This option would enable a Council supermajority to allow the exchange of a protected high conservation value property for an unprotected property of even higher conservation value, which would not be permitted by Option 1 in its current form.
- This option would make it unnecessary to add a 38-page appendix to the Charter, which would approximately double its length (though the CRC-proposed charter amendment would provide for the appendix to be excluded from the version of the charter that is published with the King County Code (see p. 8, lines 23-24 of these materials)).
- Like the OSA, this option includes exceptions that retain necessary flexibility for meeting compelling countervailing needs.

Option 3: Ordinance without charter amendment

Adopt an ordinance (not a charter amendment) creating a special protected status for high conservation value properties and adopting an initial list of protected properties, which could be modified by subsequent ordinance, with no supermajority requirement.

- This option would not require an all-or-nothing choice between protecting all of the properties listed in proposed Appendix A or none of them, nor would it permit a Council minority to block changes in the list of protected properties.

Option 4: No action

Take no action at this time.

- All the properties that would be protected by the OSA are already protected to some extent by existing restrictions.

- The county’s existing tools for protection of high conservation value properties have produced good results so far.
- The desire of OSA proponents to guard against the possibility of temporary changes in the political climate could be viewed as a desire to enforce views that are no longer held by a majority, which could be viewed as undemocratic.

1 AN ORDINANCE adopting an inventory of high
2 conservation value properties and specifying the manner in
3 which an inventory of high conservation value properties
4 will be periodically updated; and adding a new section to 5 the King County Code.

7 BE IT ORDAINED BY THE COUNCIL OF KING COUNTY:

8 SECTION 1. Findings:

9 A. King County has acquired interests in open space properties in the form of fee
10 simple ownership, conservation easements and development rights, using funds obtained
11 through various funding sources, including conservation futures taxes, Forward Thrust,
12 real estate excise taxes, surface water management fees, the river improvement fund, the 13 salmon recovery funding board, the interagency committee for outdoor recreation, voter-
14 approved open space bond funds and state and federal conservation oriented grants. The 15 primary purposes of acquiring open space are to conserve, preserve, protect, or enhance 16 natural or scenic resources, timberland devoted primarily to the growth and harvest of 17 timber for commercial purposes, streams, rivers, wetlands or soils, beaches or tidal

18 marshes, fish or wildlife habitat, water quality, passive recreational opportunities or 19 visual quality along highway, road and street corridors or scenic vistas for current and 20 future generations of King County residents. Preserving open space also reduces urban 21 sprawl, provides natural corridors in urban areas, and serves to mitigate the effects of 22 human activities that contribute to climate change.

23 B. The council by separate ordinance is submitting to a vote of the qualified
24 voters of King County a proposal to amend the King County Charter, adding a new
25 Section 897 to protect in perpetuity certain high conservation value open space properties
26 in which the county has a real property interest. The county desires to adopt an ordinance
27 implementing that charter amendment, which ordinance shall be contingent upon voter
28 approval of the proposed charter amendment.

29 SECTION 2. In accordance with Section 897 of the King County Charter, the 30 council hereby adopts Attachment A to this ordinance as the inventory of high
31 conservation value properties.

32 NEW SECTION. SECTION 3. There is hereby added to the King County Code
33 a new section to read as follows:

34 A. High conservation properties may not be removed from or added to the 35 inventory of high conservation value properties except in conformance with Section 897
36 of the King County Charter.

37 B. The inventory of high conservation value properties adopted pursuant to
38 Section 897 of the King County Charter shall be maintained by the clerk of the council
39 and the department of natural resources and parks. For each inventoried property, the 40 inventory shall include the following information:

- 41 1. Commonly used name;
- 42 2. Type of property interest owned by the county;
- 43 3. Approximate size;
- 44 4. Parcel number or numbers;
- 45 5. Recording number or numbers for deeds by which the property was acquired
- 46 by the county; and
- 47 6. A map that is sufficiently detailed to show the boundaries of the inventoried
- 48 property.

49 SECTION 4. Effective date. This ordinance takes effect the effective date of the

50 proposed amendment of the King County Charter submitted to the qualified voters of

51 King County by Ordinance ---- (Proposed Ordinance 2009-0245). This ordinance does

Ordinance

52 not take effect if the proposed amendment to the King County Charter is not approved by

The Inventory of High Conservation Value Properties consists of this table and the attached map delineations. For each inventoried property interest, the table identifies the official name of the site, the number of acres included in the inventory, and type of property interest owned by King County. While the table also provides the recording number of the deed(s) by which the inventoried property interest was acquired and the parcel(s) on which the inventoried property interest is located, such information is for reference purposes only and is not intended to delineate the actual boundaries of the inventoried property interest. Such boundaries are delineated on the maps inventory was created from King County DNRP Parks & Transfer of Development Rights property inventory as of 12/31/2008 (except for Upper Raging River Forest site added on 5/19/2009).
