

Gun Violence Perceptions Among Youth & Young Adults

Vanessa Quince, Ph.D.

Assessment, Policy, Development and Evaluation Unit (APDE)

Public Health – Seattle and King County

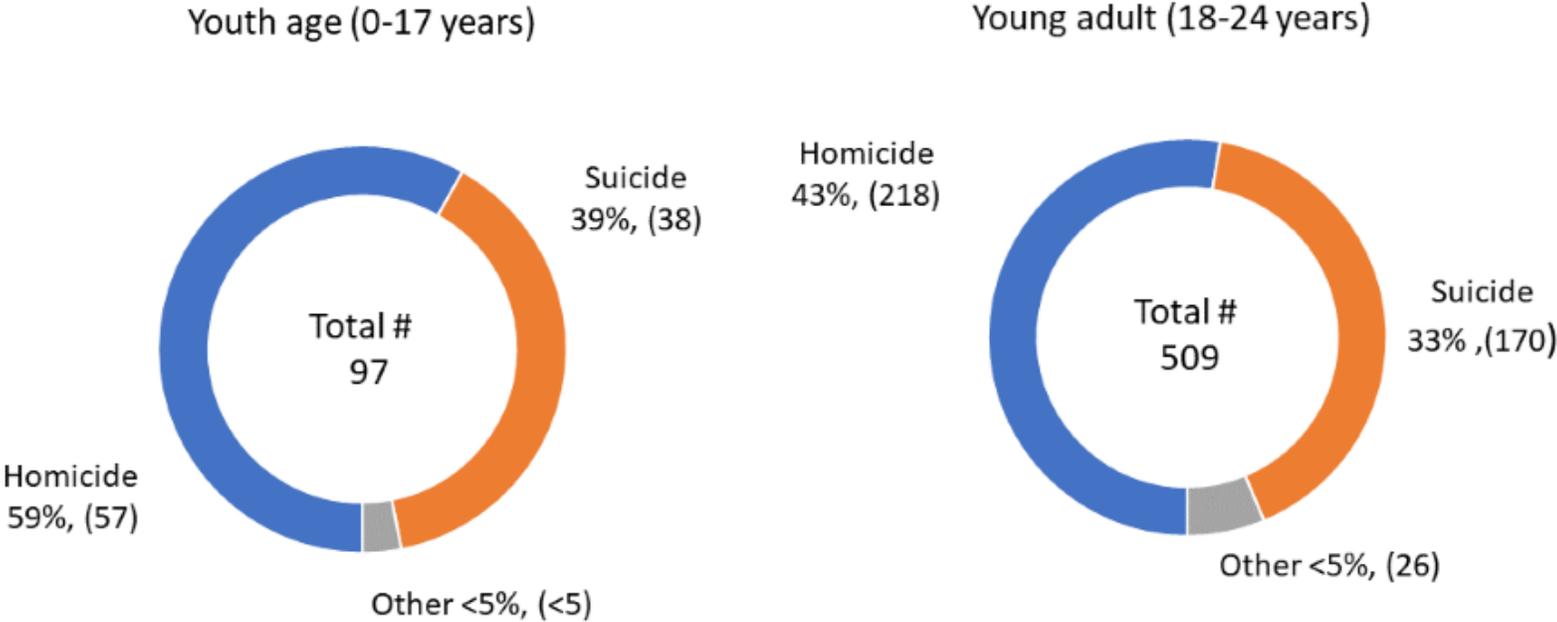

February 24, 2020

Project Purpose

- King County Council Motion 15234 (Oct 2018)
- Discussed factors related to gun violence with youth, young adults, families and advocates
- Collected recommendations for how to reduce gun violence among youth and young adults

Firearm deaths by intent in King County, 1999-2017

Note: Other includes unintentional deaths, deaths of undetermined intent, and deaths by legal intervention.

Source: Washington State Department of Health, Center for Health Statistics, Death Certificate Data, 2010-2017, Community Health Assessment Tool (CHAT).

Who we spoke with:

80 youth and young adults

26 family members

10 King County staff
members, providers,
community members, and
researchers

Youth proximity to gun violence:

Summary of Key Findings

A. Violent imagery and societal norms

B. Community conditions

C. Mental health, brain
development,
and masculinity

D. Easy access to guns

Everyday circumstances and their environments strongly influence youth decisions to engage in gun violence

Violent imagery and societal norms normalize gun violence.

“To me, it’s the frequency of images. The narrative on social media ... on the evening news. The focus on violence as a legitimate solution and violence as a construct bleeds over into guns.”

- Service provider

Community conditions impact youth engagement in gun violence.

Racism and discrimination

Poor economic conditions

Barriers to services

Affluence and pressure to succeed

Availability of community
centers

Youth development
programming

Mental health supports

Regardless of economic conditions, youth experience stressors that contribute to engagement in gun violence.

“The pressure in King County is directly related to economic pressure on the family. [...] They simply have to fight back against that by taking the situation and circumstances of their lives into their own hands – the easiest way they know how, which is to access guns.”

- Key Informant

“The kids experience high school as if there are sparse resources—because the perception is that they are going for the top place at Harvard [...] So they actually have the same level of stress—as crazy as it might sound—as some kids in really high-poverty regions.”

- Parent

While youth development resources may be available, they are not always accessible.

“... the one time [my mother] came [to my game] I thought I was [Michael] Jordan... you can see that as a loss and harp on it but my mom’s gotta work. [...] If my mom wasn’t there, (names adult mentor) was there.”

- Youth

“There’s a lot [of resources] available. [...] but sometimes the resource that I’m giving is really far away, so it’s not like an easy option if they don’t have a good transportation system to get there.”

- Youth Peer Leader

Mental health, adolescent brain development and messages about masculinity influence youth's decisions to engage in gun violence.

“People not feeling like they have another solution to their problems. Feeling powerless in a situation. Not knowing what to do, not having support. And maybe they grew up in an environment where they have seen a lot of guns. When people are portraying themselves with guns, they are showing off a lot of power, and they seem like powerful figures.”

- Youth

Ease of access to guns is a driving factor of gun violence.

“The settings are different for interpersonal and self-directed, but access to guns, whether inside or outside the home, is something that fuels it [gun violence].”

- Key Informant

It is easier to get a gun than to get a job.

- Several participants

Community Recommendations

-  Increase education about gun violence for youth, families, and community members
-  Increase range and scope of community centers
-  Increase youth access to mental health services
-  Provide social and emotional skills training to youth
-  Increase youth employment and educational opportunities
-  Examine and address youth's ability to easily access guns
-  Develop and increase system's alignment between government and community supports

Executive Recommendations

 Broadly disseminate report findings to stakeholders

 Help community-based organizations obtain funding to support existing youth programs

 Zero Youth Detention should consider and address report findings

 Use and strengthen trauma-informed approaches with youth involved in gun violence

 Generate data reports with community and provider input to inform gun violence policy and programming

 Disseminate accurate, accessible information to community members

 Increase internship and employment opportunities for youth

 Support a regional network of leaders committed to reducing gun violence

For more information

Contact us:

Vanessa Quince, Ph.D.

Assessment, Policy, Development and Evaluation Unit (APDE)

Public Health – Seattle and King County

vquince@kingcounty.gov

206-263-3665

For more information:

Report on Gun Violence Among Youth and Young Adults (December 2019)

The impact of firearms in King County: www.kingcounty.gov/firearms