

WHEREAS, the attached report is the first annual technology benefit achievement report, and

WHEREAS, the council recognizes the efforts of departments to complete the report and commends the office of performance, strategy and budget for achieving a compliance rate from active technology projects of almost one hundred percent, and

WHEREAS, the process to complete the benefit achievement report represents a shift in thinking about technology projects from measuring whether the technology works to measuring improvements in operations, benefits to the public or cost savings, and

WHEREAS, the quality of the project documentation varied within the report, and

WHEREAS, with additional training, experience, and commitment to measuring benefits, the quality of the documentation is expected to improve in future reports;

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT MOVED by the Council of King County:

The IT Benefits Report for Year Ending 2013, which is Attachment A to this motion and complies with K.C.C. 2.16.025, is hereby approved. However, approval of future reports is dependent upon improvement in the quality of project documentation in identifying and measuring improvements in operations, benefits to the public or cost savings from technology investments.
